Our Goal: The Kansas Family First Prevention Service Evaluation is a 3-year study examining the impact of prevention programs to strengthen families and prevent child welfare involvement in the state of Kansas. This project assesses implementation and outcomes related to the delivery of these community-based programs targeting mental health, parent skill building, kinship navigation, and substance use. Our goal is to provide evidence of the effectiveness of prevention services in Kansas to keep children safely with their families whenever possible.

Kinship Navigation programs like KIN-Tech provide legal help for kinship families, eliminating legal barriers around permanency for kinship families. Kinship Navigation services account for 14% of all Family First Referrals statewide.
